

MY 32 MONTHS A PRISONER OF WAR IN GERMANY

By
1ST. LT. FRANK M. NEWTON
United States Army Air Corps

Our briefing room at Haifa was a small brick building constructed by the Arabs. We lived in tents. There was nothing pretentious about our base, certainly as we look back now at the development of air power in this war, it seems incredible that any of us could have had any serious notion we were going to change the course of events there on the Mediterranean.

We were a green bunch of pilots just in from the states. Our enthusiasm was high. It was August 21, 1942. We had arisen at the usual hour. If there was any premonition of impending disaster it was carefully hidden behind brave talk. Voices from the little row of tents told of the spirit of banter and good rivalry. Men can be like that even in the face of certain death, as we shall shortly see.

I think Lt. Col. Beirne Lay, Jr., has well expressed it, for said he of the American Pilot: "He has perched alone in his cockpit, acting as his own pilot, gunner, engineer and navigator, maintaining formation, ceaselessly dredging the hemisphere of sky for the enemy. He has drawn on a bottomless well of fortitude to overcome the anesthesia of enormous fatigue while supporting doughboys in combat. He is more than a match for any weapon that an enemy can bring against us. Like the Norden bombsight, even if he is captured instantly by the Germans or the Japanese, they cannot reproduce him. He is our secret weapon: an American boy."

True the American is a back slapping, wise cracking, cocky individual, maybe misunderstood to some extent, but in relation to the story he has written with soaring wings, we could hardly over dramatize him. Now, I am placing no emphasis whatever on what I did in this war. I was merely one among millions seeking to do my part. My star, like a brief, small meteor flashed momentarily and was quenched in the blue waters of the Mediterranean.

From drab tents scattered along the Arabian desert we soon moved out toward the little briefing room across the field to get our instructions for the mission ahead. It was 11 a. m. when our group commander, Col. Hugo P. Rush took us in tow. We called him "Speedy" Rush for it was his energy and speed of action that suggested our appraisal of him. Briefing is serious business as every pilot well knows, so we absorbed with candor the instructions we had received for the mission and soon made our way back to the mess hall for lunch.

Our base was small. In those days the air force was spread out thin along the most strategic lines of combat. Haifa is a seaport in Syria just 9 miles from Acre another port of the Acre sea and at the foot of Mt. Carmel. This mountain is famous as a place of great sacredness for it was here that the Prophet Elijah triumphed over the Priests of Baal. Also for many years it had been the seat of the prosperous German Templar Colony.

We had only a dozen bombers for this mission, all B-24 Liberators. We were then operating under British intelligence. Ours was the 98th Bombardment Group. The strategy was to break Field Marshal Rommel's back by destroying his ships bringing in supplies to his bases in North Africa and to destroy his installations. Our targets were in the Mediterranean and North Africa.

Haifa is some 15 miles inland from the Mediterranean sea in the Holy Land country of Palestine. In the interior there is little to see except rocks and desert. Inhabited principally by Arabs and Jews the country is old as well for its racial difference. I was to see many times, clashes between Arab and Jew while I was based there.

We had brought back from the briefing room our mission plan for the day and our assignment was to proceed in the direction of Crete and then turn south off the southwestern (turn to page four)

LT. NORRIS BRADY IS BACK IN THE STATES

Lt. Norris Brady has arrived in the states, according to a letter received from Mrs. Gladys Westbrook, his sister. The letter from Mrs. Westbrook to The Herald is as follows: "Lt. Edwin Norris Brady, B-24 Pilot, who has been a German prisoner for 15 months, called this morning from Camp Patrick Henry, Va., to tell me he had landed in the States yesterday afternoon (20 June.) He will be sent to San Antonio and will arrive in Victoria in about a week for a 60 day leave. Before being shot down, he was stationed with the 15th Airforce in Southern Italy."

"Lt. Brady was interned at Stalag Luft I, which is located at Barth, Pomerania, on the Baltic Coast. After liberation by the Russians May 1st, they received fresh meat to eat for the first time since their capture. He is hoping his brother, Brooks Brady, now with the Merchant Marine in California will be able to get here for his home-coming."

"He will visit friends and relatives in Cameron before leaving for his redistribution center. He received some flak wounds, but informed me they were not serious, and was awarded the Air Medal in November, 1944, which I received in his behalf."

Staff Sgt. Julian W. Arnold Hero of 573 Days of Front Line Combat, Returns From Italy; Took Part in Capture of Rome; Wears Purple Heart

When history of World War II is written the world will know how tough and bitter was the Italian campaign. The American people will know all about the soul trying months through which our heroes outfought and destroyed the best troops of the German army.

A bit of story has just been told by 30 year old Staff Sgt. Julian W. Arnold, hero of 573 days of front line combat who had enough points to discharge almost 3 men and is now back in civilian life with an honorable record few men have made in this war.

Sgt. Arnold was gun section Chief operating 155 MM "Long Tom" rifles. The famous 633rd Field Artillery, organized as a mobile supporting artillery regiment of which Sgt. Arnold was a member, rated Stars and Stripes mention and received citations for its brilliant record. It supported the landings at Salerno of the famous Texas 36th division and was the first Artillery unit to fire a shell into European soil off the coast of Italy.

Sgt. Arnold made the invasion of North Africa in November 1942, and supported units of the Third U. S. Army under General George Patton in the whirlwind campaign that freed Sicily in record time.

From the bloody beaches at Salerno the old 633rd Field Artillery drubbed the Germans through to the Gothic line in Northern Italy.

Sgt. Arnold took part in the capture of Rome. He had only one day in Rome. General Mark W. Clark's 5th Army was pushing hard and the 633rd was supporting the brilliant action all along the line where the Germans were on the run. That was in June 1944 but much of his combat story deals with previous campaigns. After Salerno they fought their way up to Cassino and were there 3 months in one of the most stubbornly, bitter battles of the entire war. Sgt. Arnold said: "I was located in a formidable position about 3000 yards from the town of Cassino and the Monastery of St. Benedictine where the Germans had taken up quarters and refused to get out. Since my return I have learned that there was some discussion whether the American air men would bomb it. Well, they did and I saw the whole show. I saw the bombs streaming out of (turn to page four)

573 Days

STAFF SGT. JULIAN W. ARNOLD

Production Payments Now Available to Feeders of Cattle

Cattle feeders in Milam County can now apply to the County AAA office for beef cattle production payments under the Government's new program to increase the production of meat.

Feeders are encouraged to feed more cattle, including those he purchases and those he raises, to good and choice grades under the new program. The method of payment is similar to the dairy payment program also handled through the County AAA office, according to County AAA Chairman, H. L. Atkinson.

The beef cattle production payment amounts to 50 cents per hundred-weight on Good or Choice cattle weighing 800 pounds or more and selling for at least the minimum stabilization price, which for sales in this county is $13.60.

This is the first meat production payment made directly to livestock feeders. The program is designed to help hold the line against inflation by preventing sharp increases in retail prices which might lead to uncontrolled increases in wages and other economic factors.

Mrs. Jerusha Faulkner of Clarks-ville, Ark., is here on a visit at her old home, and is a guest of her niece, Miss Jerusha Rogers, near Cameron. Her brother, Will Rogers, formerly of Cameron, is also a guest of Miss Jerusha Rogers, and will spend some time here.

SGT. BILL WORCESTER IS KILLED IN ACTION

Sgt. Bill Worcester, Company M 411th Infantry, has been killed in action in Germany, according to a letter just received by his wife, and relayed to The Herald Monday.

Sgt. Worcester was first reported missing in action in April 1945. No further word had been received regarding him since the telegram from General Ulio, Adjutant General of the Army in Washington, stating that he was missing in action.

Mrs. Worcester received a letter from Austria dated June 11, 1945. Sgt. Worcester is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Worcester of Cameron.

The family here, in the absence of official notification from the War Department were clinging to hope that an error may have occurred, although the letter from Lt. J. W. Walker, his company commander, was direct and conclusive. Below are extracts from the letter:

"I want to express the deepest sympathy in behalf of the company and myself over Bill's death. I do not know of anything we can do to ease your grief but I want you to know that all of our hearts go out to you."

"Censorship prevents me from giving you any details of Bill's death, but I can tell you he was killed instantly while doing his job in the brave and efficient manner that he always did. For the doing of the job which brought about his death I am recommending him for a citation."

"In addition to being a good soldier, Bill was the most completely unselfish man I ever knew. He was admired and loved by every officer and man in this company. I was his platoon leader in the states and most of the time in combat and knew him well. When he was killed I counted it as another dear friend gone. To have it come so near the end makes it harder, but thank God the end has come and no more fine mens lives will be lost in Europe."

Beginning with the first week in July the Membership and Finance Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will start a membership drive and it is hoped by this committee that every business firm and professional man in Cameron will become a member of the Chamber of Commerce. This is the organization that must be supported by everyone who is interested in the development of Cameron and Milam County, thru this organization we formulate and develop our plans for the betterment of Cameron. Thru the full co-operation of every citizen, we can reach the goals as they have been set out by the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Membership in the Chamber of Commerce is on the basis of $12 per year per membership, many of our leading business firms take out two, three, five or ten memberships.

The Membership and Finance Committee has developed a budget of $4,600, which is far below the average for town of the average size of Cameron. The detailed budget will

SUMMER MONTHS AHEAD
MEAN....

...MORE WORK FOR YOUR REFRIGERATOR!

The Summer Season means overtime for your electric refrigerator... and heat can mean trouble for a refrigerator unless it is properly cared for.

A regular system of correct care and use will prove invaluable in prolonging the usefulness of your refrigerator and will assure you greater efficiency of operation.

Because of the part they play in protecting the nation's food and health, America's electric refrigerators are making a major contribution to the War Effort.

Check the suggestions listed below... you will find them helpful in keeping your refrigerator in trim for rendering valuable wartime service.

1. Defrost Regularly... Follow manufacturer's directions. Defrost when ice on freezer reaches approximate pencil thickness. Let frost melt... never use a sharp tool. Empty drip water immediately.

2. Store Foods Properly... Meats and fish below in the cold storage container; milk and cream at top; butter, leftovers in the middle; vegetables and fruits in the crisper. Proper circulation of air helps, too... so don't overcrowd!

3. Keep the Inside Fresh, Clean... Wash with baking soda and water. Don't forget the freezer. Use soap and water for the shelves... and don't open the door too often... this overworks your refrigerator... especially in hot weather.

U. S. FLAG NOW FLIES OVER OKINAWA BASE

High American officials spoke openly of plans to intensify the war on Japan and "pave the way for invasion" as latest field advices today reported grouped enemy surrenders on Okinawa and the slamming shut of a new death trap on the foe in the Philippines.

United States Sixth army units and Filipino guerrillas have captured Aparri, Philippines port on northern Luzon island, sealing off the last sea escape route for Japanese remnants caught in Cagayan valley.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, announcing the victory today, said the Americans and Filipinos were spreading rapidly southward from Aparri, one of the ports used by the Japanese to invade the Philippines in December, 1941.

U. S. 37th division units captured the town of San Juan, five miles north of Ilagan in Cagayan valley, continuing the Yank advance.

The United States flag was officially raised over Okinawa yesterday in traditional ceremony marking the American conquest of the island only 325 miles south of Japan's home shores.

OKINAWA CAMPAIGN IS ENDED SAYS NIMITZ

Organized Jap resistance on Okinawa has ended, it was announced early Thursday by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz from his headquarters on Guam.

Admiral Nimitz said that remaining Jap units on the island have been driven into small pockets and are being mopped up.

By far the costliest campaign of the Pacific the Americans killed around 90 thousand Japs and suffered some 30 thousand casualties. The ratio of dead was about 30 to one in our favor.

The Japanese were saying that a new invasion is in the making and this time may be the main Jap Islands.

MARCH OF TIME

"The Returning Veteran"

The courage which carried the American soldier into battle will see him through in the days to come, as shown in these scenes from March of Time's "The Returning Veteran." Once the shock of learning that he must go through life without his own arm has been overcome, the veteran above is surprised to learn things may not be so bad after all. One of the first steps toward recovery is learning how to use one of the new artificial arms perfected during this war. He starts his training on specially built practice doors and windows. Later, through participation in games like ping pong, he learns that pleasant pastimes are not necessarily denied him. And finally, encouraged by these successes which a year ago he would have declared impossible, he may well become an exceptionally skilled craftsman.

Any serviceman, however courageous, may encounter a series of shocks and ordeals more shattering than the human mind can support, as these dramatic scenes from March of Time's "The Returning Veteran" graphically demonstrate. For these men whose wounds though invisible are no less severe, the road back may be strewn with many emotional barriers and upsets. But sympathy and understanding can start them on the way to recovery through manual tasks which give them once more the sense of accomplishment. Finally, under the healing balm of time, they can resume a useful and happy life.

the bays of the great fleet of bombers. They cut a path through the sky across my position as I lay there with field glasses watching the big ships come over. The B-17's came over first. Then the B-26 Marauders came over in waves and the dive bombers finished off the job. The ancient monastery disappeared in a great cloud of dust and smoke. Then our artillery took over. The town of Casino, built along the cliffs and hills was a mass of rubble when we got through but the Germans were still there and they fought us to a standstill and the story of how we took it to my way of thinking is one of the bitter experiences of the war. That was in the late spring. The mountains were still white with snow, in fact when I left the Gothic line in February 1945, thirty inches of snow lay on the ground.

"After Casino we broke through in May. The Germans had their best troops in that sector, most of them crack paratroop units and they were all good soldiers. After the break through in May we fought our way up to Anzio where a second landing had been made following Salerno. There we made contact with the 45th, 3rd and 1st Armored Divisions and other units that had fought inland. Then we began the attack on Rome. The battle to reduce the Italian capital lasted 30 days. We all got a big thrill as we marched through the Eternal City. I had only one day in Rome. We had business ahead. The Germans were reeling back and we gave them no rest."

"As I look back over my experiences during my 31 months overseas I am convinced that while a man by training and conviction for the right of his cause can make a good soldier there were many times when I felt the good Lord must have had his hand on my shoulder.

"The campaign in Sicily just about takes the prize for violence and swift movement. We were then under Gen. George Patton who exacts much from his men but he gets the job done. We were very tired when the Germans were finally driven out of Sicily and on to the Italian boot.

"After the capture of Rome, first of the Axis capitals to fall, the Germans were reeling back and General Clark was giving them no chance to reform their lines, so there was serious business ahead. Naturally it was a disappointment to us that we could spend only one day in Rome.

"I was wounded in July, 1944, during the battle for Florence. Shrapnel hit me in the back and I was out 3 weeks at a base hospital where I came around in good shape and soon rejoined the old 633rd. My outfit was in the outskirts of Florence when I rejoined it and I took part in the final stages of that battle. We had lost many men and after we took Florence our regiment was reorganized. In my unit were 143 men when I left the states. In February when I quit the mountains of northern Italy to come home on rotation there were only 38 of the original number. Many of them had been killed.

"The fighting became very bitter as we advanced on the Gothic Line. This line was a series of mountain fortifications. Our "Long Tom" rifles did the job. As crew chief in my battery we wore out 7 barrels on our big gun for we literally fired many thousands of rounds of ammunition. When the rifles were gone out of the barrel we would have a new one put in. Sometimes we had to get our shells up in the mountains by the old fashioned pack mule system. I was with the break through forces on the Gothic Line and we were shelling the outskirts of Bologna when I received my rotation furlough.

"The fighting in Italy was often waged under most difficult of conditions. With the exception of a few battles we were in the mountains.

"Somehow a fellow feels just down right lucky. I had a number of narrow escapes. One I shall always remember. I was on the Gothic line. I was making my way across a field to get something to eat. A German shell plumped into the ground almost at my heels. I felt the earth rise under me and I was thrown some distance. The shell was a dud. If it had exploded I would not be here to tell the story. One day I was in my tent resting. The Germans were shelling us. Something told me to move. I got out of my tent which was a small topping over a hole in the ground. I made my way to some shelter a short distance away. When I returned a shell had landed square on the spot where my tent was stretched and there was nothing left to tell it had been my house.

"The Gothic line was a series of mountain fortifications. It stretched from Arno river to Bologna almost clear across Italy. Many men lost their lives. Across the battle fields the American and German dead often lay in heaps. We changed positions many times but we never retreated.

Stars and Stripes recently had this to say about Sgt. Arnold's 633rd Field Artillery Battalion: Thirty months overseas was marked recently by the 633rd Field Artillery Battalion which sailed from New York August 6, 1942.

Commanded by Lt. Col. Wayne Folts of Lexington, Va., the 633rd came overseas as the 2nd Battalion of the 36th Field Artillery regiment and was given its present number in March 1944. Its overseas service has taken it to Scotland, England, Tunisia, Sicily and Italy.

Its 155 MM "Long Tom" rifles have in more than 500 combat days supported ten American divisions and British, French, New Zealand, Polish and Italian units.

Sgt. Arnold has recently been discharged from the service. His was a record of 573 days in combat. He is 36 years old, born and reared in Cameron. He arrived in New York March 9, 1945.

Sgt. Arnold was overseas 31 months. He wears on his service ribbons 4 battle stars. On his left sleeve are 5 overseas bars, one for each 6 months. Service ribbons include: American Defense Service Ribbon, Good Conduct Ribbon, European, African and Middle Eastern Theatre Ribbon, and the Purple Heart. The battle stars are for Tunisia in North Africa, Sicily and two for the Italian campaign.

In the war to defeat the Germans in Italy it was a job for the dough- feet. The good old American soldier was at his best, seeking out the enemy, often digging him out but in the end defeating him and the men who served like Sgt. Arnold can always look back upon a job well done and they have earned the lasting gratitude of the nation and the free peoples of earth.

edge of the Island to attack a German convoy taking in supplies to Rommel. If the convoy were proceeding north it would be taking British prisoners out of North Africa to camps in Germany about which I was to learn so much in the long months ahead. If the convoy were proceeding south it would be the correct course of the supply arm for Rommel.

Two squadrons had been briefed for we had only a few bombers. Arab labor was then constructing revetments at our base for more bombers. Our group commander who later became a Brigadier General and went to Wing Command, sent us out in two squadrons of 11 bombers. Our ships were painted pink because of the surrounding color of the desert, miles upon miles of red sand. We called our Liberators "Pink Elephants." Every pilot and crew lavished affection and attentions upon their ship as do men at sea. Mine was the "San Antonio Rose." I had ordered a large black circle with cut out design painted on the long pencil nose of the great bomber. In the center of this circle was a green rose bush and flaming from its stems were red roses. It was a distinguishing mark which had we known might have been better left unpainted but we know little. If you are ignorant of what lies ahead it makes little difference. If you know it is quite another thing.

Around 3 p. m. our great ships were wheeled out on the runways. Short of crews the job was sometimes a community of enterprise from the lowliest Arab worker on the revets to the Pilot himself. The weather was beautiful as it most always is. We soon took off. Mine was the 7th ship to slowly climb into the Arabian sky. The rain fall there is about 10 inches annually. Further inland it is less. There is always great visibility. We could see Mt. Camel in the immediate foreground as we turned toward the Mediterranean and began to climb. You cannot feel feeling keenly a sense of the historic as you wing over places dear to the Christian world and here below you wonder if you may not at the moment be thundering along through skies that once blazed with the chariot of fire that swept up Elijah who had so long contended with the corrupt Priests of Baal. Out in the desert in far off times lowly shepherds moved with their flocks and at night when the stars came out deep in the soul were thoughts of that Star of Hope to which men's eyes in all ages of earth have turned with longing.

In a few minutes we were out over the blue waters of the Mediterranean headed for Crete and the German convoy we know was out there somewhere briefed by British intelligence along its route from ports far away in the Balkans.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui is a liquid medicine which many women say has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Here's how it may help:

1 Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come.

2 Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes. Try Cardui. If it helps, you'll be glad you did.

Body Fuel

Sugar is a food used solely to supply body fuel. Containing no protein, minerals and vitamins, it should be used sparingly to prevent a shortage of these substances in the diet. Molasses is a valuable food because of its richness in calcium and iron. Sugar cane syrup is similar in food value to molasses although not as concentrated. Sorghum syrup is a rich source of calcium and iron. Honey is a concentrated sweet with only traces of mineral value which are of little importance.

Christian Church in City Begins Revival

Interest was heightened here Wednesday in the Christian church revival with a growing public appreciation of the powerful preaching of the revivalist, Grover C. Schurman. The church has retained space in the Daily Herald to announce the subjects each day and to give the music program for the night. Services were being held each night at 8:30, except Saturday.

Rev. Schurman is a member of the Rotary Club and made up his attendance here Wednesday. His hobby is Anthropology. His collection of Indian flint work is in the museum at Howard-Payne College in Brownwood.

Mrs. W. W. Loftin of Waco is spending a few days with relatives and friends in Cameron.

WHERE DOES HIS PATH LEAD?

His bare feet know the farm by heart. The cool, moist earth at planting time. The icy dew at sunrise in the pasture. The cloddy field that had to be plowed too wet last spring.

What do they tell him of your farm today? Does he sense the wartime burden it has borne . . . the price it has paid in fertility, depreciation of fences and buildings, wear and tear on machinery? Perhaps not. But if this loss is not repaid, he will surely discover as the years go by that something is wrong underfoot. The productive power of the farm may be undermined, and with it his opportunity for a college education, or his chance of farm ownership.

On the other hand—if you set up a reserve of War Bonds . . . NOW . . . to replenish lost soil fertility, to increase herds to peacetime strength, to repair buildings and replace worn equipment . . . his future will be assured.

Prepare now to replace these items FIRST—they represent the EARNING POWER of your farm. We owe it to our barefoot boys and their older brothers overseas to buy MORE War Bonds and keep them for this future need.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday July 1.

The Golden Text is: "Lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees; and make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but let it rather be healed." (Hebrews 12:13, 13.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Arise, shine; for thy light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee" (Isaiah 60:1.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "As time moves on, the healing elements of pure Christianity will be fairly dealt with; they will be sought and taught, and will glow in all the grade of universal goodness."

Kellogg's

The Greatest Name in Cereals

So crisp, they snap! crackle! pop! More popular than all other ready-to-eat rice cereals combined.

Tender, crunchy wheat flakes—extra rich in important vitamins B₁ and D. Youngsters love it!

Made from the nutrition-packed vital outer layers of finest wheat. Famous "regulating" cereal.

NEW! Crisp flakes and tender raisins, in the same package. A double treat. Iron-rich, too!

Tempting wheat flakes with 40% of the healthful bran retained. Swell tasting—swell for you.

15 hearty, nutritious whole-wheat biscuits in every package—tasted the famous Kellogg way.

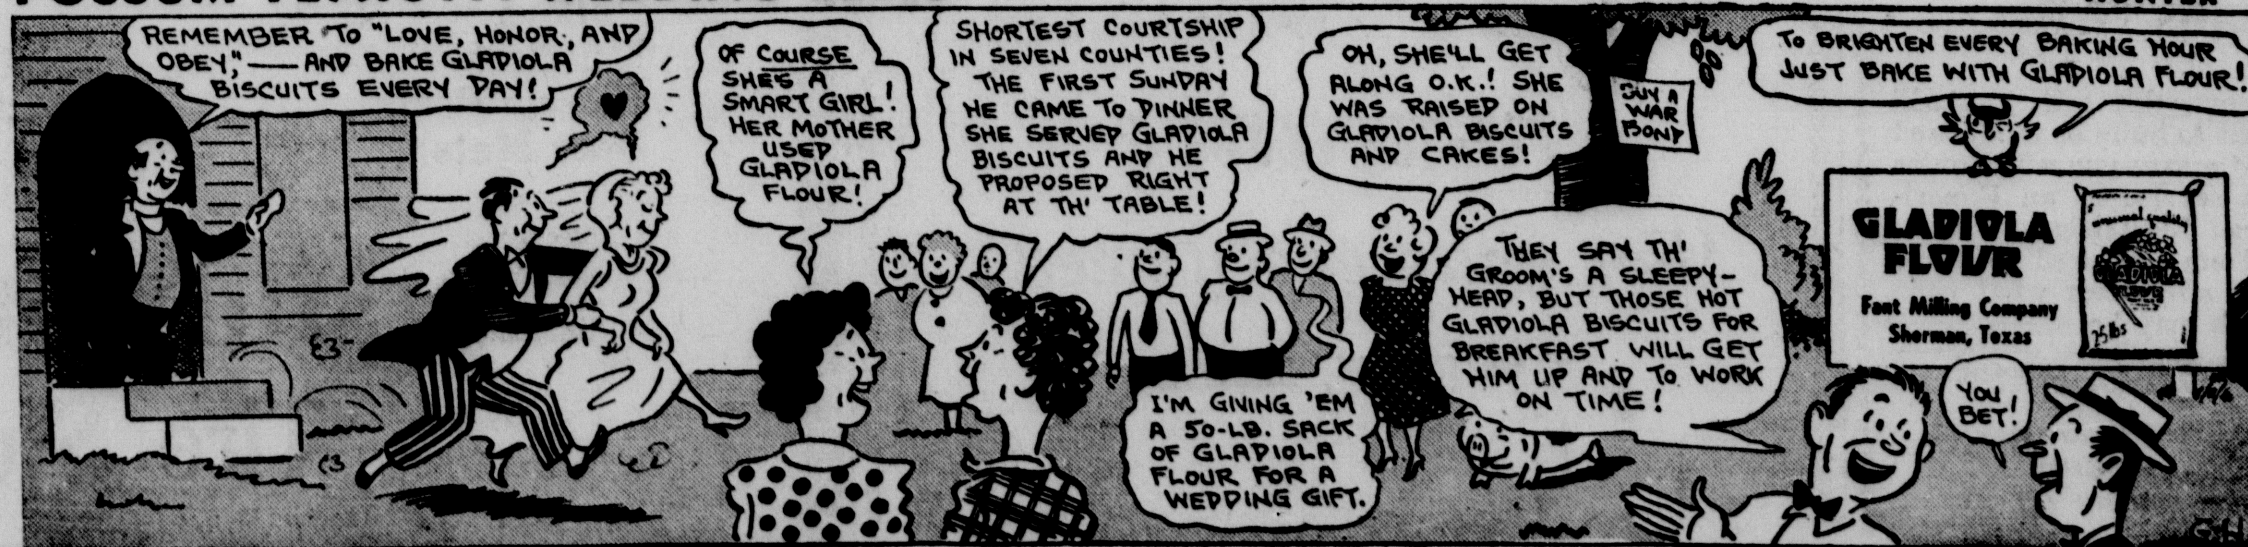

Crisp, golden-toasted flakes—always so fresh because they're the world's most popular cereal.

Crisp nutritious shreds made from whole wheat. Delicious with fresh fruit and milk. Try it!
